SA FRUIT EXPORT DESTINATIONS

EU 1148/2001 & 543/2007

Imports of fruit and vegetables from third countries should conform to the marketing standards or to standards equivalent to them. Conformity checks must therefore be carried out before those goods enter the customs territory of the Union, except in the case of small lots which the inspection bodies consider to be low risk.

In certain third countries which provide satisfactory guarantees of conformity, pre-export checks may be carried out by the inspection bodies of those third countries. Where this option is applied, Member States should regularly verify the effectiveness and quality of the pre-export checks carried out by third country inspection bodies.

ADVANTAGES OF APPROVED THIRD COUNTRY STATUS UNDER EU 1148/543

- Produce is not delayed as it cleared automatically, because it has a certificate.
- Inspection might be waived when risk analysis is applied
- Produce can be moved directly to customer's premises without delay as it has already been cleared.
- Produce is free to move within the European Union.
- Whilst a small percentage of consignments from Approved Third Countries are randomly picked for inspection, to check that the approval continues to be applicable. This number is much smaller than those picked for inspection from non-approved countries.

ADVANTAGES OF APPROVED THIRD COUNTRY STATUS UNDER EU 1148/543

- Consignments from Approved Third Countries that are picked for random inspection can be inspected at a customers premises rather than the port. So reducing any delays.
- Approved Third Country status confers a quality image on products from that country.
