BRASÍLIA

Serpro Venue

SERPRO's regional office was chosen to be the main venue for the G20 meetings that will take place in Brasilia during the months of March to June, 2024 due to its modern infrastructure, strategic location and high security standards. The building is an example of the Brutalist architecture, a style famous for its hard lines, unpretentious materials and overall dystopian appearances born in the 1950s as an economical and efficient solution to the destruction caused by World War II. Brazil houses some of the world's most recognized Brutalist masterpieces, such as the Modern Art Museum of Rio de Janeiro (MAM) and the São Paulo Museum of Art (MASP).

SERPRO is a leader in the InformationTechnology market and one of the main actors in the Brazilian digital transformation. It offers services to private and public sectors, both in Brazil and abroad. SERPRO is one of the largest IT public companies in the world, responsible for the most important systems used by the Federal Public Administration of Brazil. During the meetings, delegations will have the opportunity to know more about the innovative digital solutions offered by the company. Find more information in <https://www.serpro.gov.br/en>.

Shuttle services will be provided to delegates between the venue and the hotels included on the list provided in section 3 ("Accommodation"). There will be no shuttle service to and from the airport.

7. PLACES OF INTEREST

SQUARE OF THE THREE POWERS

The Square of the Three Powers is the political center stage of the country, hosting the headquarters of the three powers of the State: the Planalto Palace (Executive Power), the National Congress (Legislative Power) and the Federal Supreme Court (Judicial Power). The Square and the buildings that surround it are the work of Oscar Niemeyer and Lúcio Costa.

Opened in 1992, Espaço Lúcio Costa is a themed museum dedicated to the architect, urban planner and professor Lúcio Costa, winner of the National Competition for the Brasília Pilot Plan, who defined the city's project.

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF THE REPUBLIC / METROPOLITAN CATHEDRAL

The National Museum of the Republic (MuN) is part of the Cultural Complex of the Republic, together with the National Library of Brasília, and was inaugurated on December 15, 2006. MuN's mission is to promote visual arts for all audiences, and to be a space to encourage curiosity, raise awareness and produce knowledge.

The Metropolitan Cathedral - Nossa Senhora Aparecida or simply Brasília's Cathedral, is a Brazilian Catholic temple and the chair of the Archdiocese of Brasília. Its architecture was designed by Oscar Niemeyer and is considered to be his masterpiece.

BANCO DO BRASIL CULTURAL CENTER

The Banco do Brasil Cultural Center aims to bring together, in one place, all possible forms of art and creativity. The place has large living spaces, bistro, art galleries, cinema room, theater, central square and gardens, where exhibitions, musical shows, film screenings and performances are held.

TV TOWER

The TV Tower is a visual landmark in Brasília, capable of offering a broad view of the city's organization. It is the second tallest structure in Brazil, at 230 meters high. The project was signed by Lúcio Costa, architect and urban planner who designed Brasília.

8. GENERAL INFORMATION

The payment methods used in Brazil are credit/debit cards and cash (Brazilian reais). MasterCard and Visa cards are generally accepted in most businesses. However, it is important to note that many tourist attractions only accept cash payments.

To exchange currency, it is necessary to go to an exchange office such as Western Union, DayCâmbio, Rede Câmbio Seguro, Confidence Câmbio, among others, many of which operating in Brazilian airports.

Furthermore, cash withdrawal from ATM machines is easy and available all over the country.

Voltage and power sockets: Electricity voltage in Brazil varies between 110V and 220V depending on the location. Many Brazilian hotels offer sockets for both voltages, and you can easily find portable voltage transformers in electrical supply stores. The voltage in Brasilia is 220V.

The sockets in Brazil are type N and have the standard 3-pin sockets. For safety, the sockets are recessed, so connection and power only occur when the plugs are fully inserted into the socket to prevent accidental contact with energized plugs.

Climate: Brazil is a tropical country. The average annual temperature is 28°C in the Northern part of the country and around 20°C in the South.

Health advice and proof of vaccination: There is no mandatory requirement of proof of vaccination to enter the country. Vaccination or Covid-19 tests are no longer required for entry into the country.

The Brazilian Ministry of Health recommends international travelers to update their vaccination status prior to arrival in Brazil, following the guidelines of the vaccination calendar of their country of origin (in particular concerning vaccines against yellow fever, polio, measles, rubella, diphtheria and tetanus).

The use of insect repellents is recommended in order to prevent mosquito bites and the transmission of dengue, zika and any other vector-borne diseases.
